

The Lion's Tale

February 25, 2019 Leo Junior/Senior High School Volume LVIII Issue VIII

What's Inside

Couples Q&A by Haley Boyce and Jaide Castillon

2019 Talent show hits Leo by Stephen Simpson

"The Forge Reclamation" movie review by Tyler Reisgies

Opinion: High school relationships by Jaide Castillon

Coke or Pepsi? by Tyler Reisgies and Haley Boyce, on page 4

"Thank u, next" album review by Haley Boyce

Wrestling team wins big by Tyler Reisgies

Students participate in annual science fair

By Nina Kern

News editor

The 2019 Science Fair is quickly approaching at Leo Jr./Sr. High School.

It seems that majority of participants are freshman, since the fair is a requirement to pass Biology.

Although, several groups of upperclassmen are participating as well. There is a lot of variation with the projects this year.

One particular group of freshman, Leo Cook, Gavin Vitz, and Tyler Hartleroad, are using gel electrophoresis to show the different types of materials in food dye.

The group explained that electrophoresis is the process that uses electricity to pull molecules from one place to another.

By zapping the gels, they will examine the speed at which the dyes move.

Leo Cook seems enthused about the fair, though the group's reasoning for participating this year is because it is required.

Another freshman group of Paige Hasselman, Eva Peterson, and Chloé Moncada is testing what product removes graffiti the best.

This group is comparing the effects of three different products: Goo Gone, Goof Off, and alcohol.

They also claim to be participating in the science fair this year because it is required.

A group of sophomores has a different reason for participating this year.

Leighanna Coley says, "I'm only doing this for the extra credit in chemistry".

This seems to be a trend with the sophomore class.

Leighanna's group of Avere Yoder and Tyler Reisgies are testing what temperature makes a magnet the strongest.

In this experiment, the group will heat a magnet to several different temperatures to understand how temperature affects the magnetism of a magnet, and come to a conclusion on what temperature makes a magnet the strongest.

The science fair is a perfect way for students to express creativity and get involved.

Sophomores Madi Haines and Ella Tague work on their science project.

Just Ask Jaide :

Dealing with relationships

By Jaide Castillon

Chief photographer

Relationships come with ups and downs. It's not a walk in the park.

It comes with responsibility and effort.

Some advice for those of you that are in relationships is that never be selfish.

Always keep in mind that it's a two way street.

Maintaining a healthy relationship takes time and also effort from both people.

Struggles between your significant other can tend to get out of hand, but there's always a way to solve things the right way.

For example, being upfront with one another.

Never bottle situations up when you're feelings uneasy about things.

Being upfront can help solve things fast and in a mature way.

It's good to always let your significant other know how you're feeling and when you feel something that way you're both on the same page.

It's important to take into consideration how your significant other is feeling.

You don't want them to think that you don't care or that you aren't willing to hear their side of things.

Another thing that comes along with is compromising.

Compromising helps make things easier between your significant other.

Compromising takes the willingness to change and it's also never one-sided.

Whether it's maintaining a healthy relationship by putting in effort, being up front with one another, being considerate of each other's feelings, or compromising, the road to a healthy relationship isn't too far away.

Always keep in mind that a relationship is a two way street.

Need some advice? Contact Jaide Castillon at (260) 760- 9951. All questions will be anonymous.

Longest US government shutdown comes to a halt

Federal workers feel repercussions as a result

By Stephen Simpson

In-depth issue editor

400,000 workers had been furloughed, and another 400,000 had been on the job but were not getting paid."

The government shutdown has also reportedly harmed worker morale, as some considered leaving governmental work because of the absence of pay.

Also in the private sector, small business has been suffering. Being that the Small Business Administration, a state agency, was one of the closed organs, small business owners have been unable to receive loans and therefore many have faced the possibility of bankruptcy.

CNBC reports: "The Consumer Bankers Association pegged the tally of outstanding loans at about 300 for each day of the shutdown, or about $2 billion in lending."

This reopening is only temporary, however. A short agreement has been made in congress, allowing the pay of government employees.

However, if, by February 15, funding for the border wall is not supplied, Trump will either reinstate the shutdown or declare national emergency.

From December 22, 2018 to January 25, 2019 the Federal government experienced a shutdown brought about by Donald Trump's proposal for a bill requesting $5 billion for the construction of a US-Mexico border wall and the Democrats refusal to support such a bill.

This refusal was heightened even more so after Jan. 3 because of the Democrat takeover of the House of Representatives.

The effects of government shutdowns include unpaid federal workers, disruptions of government services and programs, closure of national parks and institutions, loss in profit in several organs of the state, and costing the Federal government millions of dollars in lost labor.

Many federal workers have received their first partial paycheck since the government shutdown. NPR States: "Some

Students gear up for 2019 talent show

By Stephen Simpson

In-depth-issue editor

On February 21, the “Leo’s Got Talent” show was held in the school’s cafeteria for all to see. “Leo’s Got Talent” is the school’s annual talent show for the students of Leo to perform their talents in front of an audience.

Hosted by Seniors Arland Coolman and Kyle Mizazga, the show contained performances of song and dance. The performers included Maria Isaacson, Aerin Goldman and Avery Kissner, Madeline Ganser and Bailianna Sholl, Meka Schwartz, Jenna Gladieux, Makayla Edwards, and more.

Madeline Ganser, who sang “Imagine” by John Lennon, was accompanied by Bailianna Sholl playing the bass ukulele. Jenna Gladieux, who performed “When We Were Young” by Adele, impressed many from her ability to sing its wide range and difficult notes.

Makayla Edwards, who sang “Happier” by Ed Sheeran, was another notable appearance that many were happy to hear.

Aerin Goldman and Avery Kissner appeared as a duet singing the tune “Over You” by Ingrid Michelson, a powerful piece performed well by the two young singers.

Although the lineup was rather short in comparison to previous shows, that did not hold back the quality of the performances which many in the audience enjoyed.

PHOTO BY HALEY BOYCE

Senior Meka Schwartz rehearses her act.

Travis Scott comes to Indianapolis

Rapper hits the road for “ASTROWORLD” tour

By Haley Boyce

Editor-in-chief

On Feb. 20, 2019, rapper Travis Scott will be performing at Bankers Life Fieldhouse in Indianapolis, IN.

Scott became a household name in 2018 after he released his junior album, “ASTROWORLD.”

The tour, “ASTROWORLD: Wish You Were Here”, features rappers Virgil Abloh, Sheck Wes, Trippie Redd, and Gunna as the opening acts, according to The Fader.

Seniors Alex Bond, Lydia Lange, and Kinsey Smith will all be attending the show.

Bond first became interested in attending the concert after seeing videos of the show.

“Travis Scott is a pretty popular rapper,” Bond said. “It looks like he puts on a good show.”

Scott, who has created hits such as “SICKO MODE” and “goosebumps”, is known for his high-energy performances featuring intense light shows and for bringing a real roller coaster on stage for him to ride on during the performance.

“I think everyone [at the concert] will be going crazy,” Lange told “The Lion’s Tale”.

According to Setlist.fm, Scott is expected to perform a total of 31 songs, ranging from his first album to his most recent.

Both Smith and Lange are looking forward to Scott’s iconic song “SICKO MODE”, which spent ten weeks on the Hot 100’s No. 1 spot, according to Billboard.

Bond looks forward to hearing “SICKO MODE”, along with some of his earlier hits.

“I feel like ‘goosebumps’ is a classic,” Bond said. “I’m kind of excited for like ‘YOSEMITE’ and ‘BUTTERFLY EFFECT’ though.”

Smith looks forward to the concert, specifically, what she thinks the atmosphere will be like.

“The atmosphere will be fun and the vibe will be good,” Smith predicts. “Everyone will be excited to be there.”

Tickets for the event are still available online on websites such as Ticketmaster and vividseats.

Jam out to our Valentines Day inspired playlists

Break-up Playlist

- Someone Like You by Adele
- Coaster by Khalid
- Thru Your Phone by Cardi B
- One Number Away by Luke Combs
- Over You by Marc Scibilia
- Too Much To Ask by Niall Horan
- Irreplacable by Beyonce
- Be Alright by Dean Lewis
- So Sick by Nayo
- If You Want Love by NF
- I Miss You by Clean Bandit
- Like I Loved You by Brett Young
- Blood and Bones by Kodaline
- Not Over You by Gavin Degraw
- Nothing by The Script
- Honest by Bazzi

In-Love Playlist

- Speechless by Dan + Shay
- Shallow by Lady Gaga and Bradley Cooper
- Then by Brad Paisley
- You Make it Easy by Jason Aldean
- She Will be Loved by Maroon 5
- All to Myself by Dan + Shay
- Wanted by Hunter Hayes
- Perfect by Ed Sheeran
- God Gave Me You by Blake Shelton
- Japanese Denim by Daniel Caesar
- XO by John Mayer
- Marry You by Bruno Mars
- Beautiful by Bazzi
- Best Part by Daniel Caesar (ft. H.E.R.)
- Die For You by The Weeknd

Local movie displays theme of family unity

"The Forge Reclamation" wows with unique plot

By Tyler Reisgies

Managing editor

Unlike many action movies, The Forge Reclamation, written and directed by senior Ben Richards, has a bigger meaning behind it.

The blood-tingling film will have viewers sitting on the edge of their seats.

In this movie the two main characters Archeron and Nancy Forge, are retired drug dealers who quit the life of crime to provide a happy life for their two children.

When an old, dark family secret is stolen,

Archeon recruits his past team again in effort to reveal the fugitive.

The main performers of the film Timothy Leon, and Sharon Nelson, are not big time "Hollywood", yet they provide strong and leading roles that perfectly fit their on screen characters.

From this film, Archeron will do anything to protect his family, which demonstrates the theme of the movie; family is indivisible.

This movie is perfect for action lovers, but also for anyone that wants to support the Leo community.

Seeing your community on the big screen releases a feeling of pride.

Go support Bens movie you won't regret it.

A movie poster for "The Forge Reclamation."

Singer Ariana Grande debuts new album, "thank u, next"

By Haley Boyce

Editor-in-chief

On Friday, Feb. 8, pop singer Ariana Grande released her fifth studio album entitled, "thank u, next."

The album, which features 12 songs, is one of Grande's most personal albums yet with songs that dive deep into romantic relationships and why they go wrong.

Grande opens her album with the song "imagine", a dreamy song that reflects on a past relationship.

This song showcases Grande's talents, featuring her iconic whistle tones. Beyond the notes and the melody, this song sets the theme for the album: past loves and how to move on from them.

The next song on the album is a lullaby-like song called "needy." The beat in this song is unique, featuring sounds similar to a bell chiming.

Grande sings about her relationship insecurities, something everyone has. She admits she's needy and has some personal issues. The catchy beat and relatable lyrics make this song one you want to sing-a-long to.

The third track, "NASA" is my personal favorite. Grande sings about needing her space and gives a nod to the space organization, NASA.

This song is like the sequel to Grande's previous hit, "God is woman", where Grande compares women to the universe.

In this song, however, Grande sings about needing her space in a relationship. The lyrics present another theme: the necessity of independence in a relationship.

The beat alone is dreamy and a pop classic. Her vocals on this track are smooth and precise. This song can be summed up in one word: a bop.

"Bloodline", the fourth track jumps out at you with a

R&B-like beat. The beat features trumpets, a deep bass and is beachy.

This is another song on the album where Grande sings about exploring her independence, as well as just having fun.

The fourth track, "fake smile", is a rather personal song for Grande. She sings about her hard times and how she sometimes fakes her happiness.

It starts off with an old-timey song that sings "After laughter, comes tears", then jumps into a fun, dark beat. But despite this dark beat, there is a definite undertone of sadness.

Grande's vocals in this song are killer, with her wide range of vocals getting showcased. The song ends with her harmonizing, something that makes the song devastatingly gorgeous.

Grande switches moods in her next song "bad idea." The fast beat echoed a mischievous tone, where Grande sings about having a bad idea. This is a classic pop song, but Grande still manages to reshape it with her effortless vocals.

The seventh song on the album, "makeup" is another one of my personal favorites. Another lullaby-esque song, Grande sings about making up with a lover and sings about her makeup at the same time.

This simple, yet fresh song is another catchy hit that can be summed up as a bop.

The tone shifts in "ghostin", a track where Grande opens up about grieving a past relationship while in a new one.

Grande sings about being heartbroken after losing a past love and apologizes to her current love for all the sadness she's put him through.

This song is beautiful, with a smooth piano, violin oriented beat. "Ghostin" is clearly Grande's strongest song on the album with her breathtakingly raw vocals.

This is a song that makes you want to cry it's so beautiful, an aspect that shows Grande is a true artist, in my opinion.

In the next song, "in my head," Grande jumps back into the theme of failed relationships. She sings about seeing her partner better than he really is and making her relationship better than it really is. The beat is more on the hip hop side, which shows Grande is a dynamic artist.

Grande showcases her rapping skills in the next song, "7 rings." While this song might seem like it's simply about Grande flaunting her wealth, this song is about friendship and again being independent.

This song is so catchy, you won't even notice you're singing along. It's fun and funky and something different from other songs in the pop-music world. Grande proves herself with this track, showing she can do more than just hit high notes; she can rap.

In her next track, "thank u, next", Grande sings about her most important message of all: acceptance of a bad situation. Grande reflects on her past boyfriends and sends the message that she's ready to move on and focus on herself.

Her message is one we can all interpret differently. Even if you've never been in a relationship, you can look at "thank u, next" as a song about a bad situation that might have hurt you, but taught you so much, so you're thankful for it. I loved this song when it was released prior to the album, and I still love it.

The last song "break up with your girlfriend, i'm bored" song with a cool, hip hop like beat. It's different from her songs, as it's less singing and more rapping. Still, this song makes you want to get up and dance.

Overall, I thought Grande's album was simply a masterpiece. Her ability to convey such real emotions makes this album relatable and enjoyable. This is Grande's best work yet.

I highly recommend this album to anyone who likes pop music, who is dealing with heartbreak, or who needs new music to sing-along to.

"Thank u, next" is now available to stream and purchase.

SPREAD BY HALEY BOYCE AND TYLER REISGIES

coke

OR

pepsi?

Grade: Sophomore
Full name: Averee Grace Yoder
Nickname: Aves
Salty or sweet? Sweet
Jeans or sweats? Sweats
Which is worse: no tv or no music? No tv
Coke or pepsi? Pepsi

Grade: Senior
Full name: Alexandra Glenn Bond
Nickname: Alex
Salty or sweet? Sweet
Jeans or sweats? Jeans
Which is worse: no tv or no music? No music
Coke or pepsi? Coke

Grade: Sophomore
Full name: Nate Etherington
Nickname: Just "Nate"
Salty or sweet? Salty
Jeans or sweats? Sweats
Which is worse: no tv or no music? No music
Coke or pepsi? Pepsi

Grade: Junior
Full name: Kennedy Elise Shade
Nickname: Kay
Salty or sweet? Sweet
Jeans or sweats? Jeans
Which is worse: no tv or no music? No tv
Coke or pepsi? Pepsi

Five students commit to college athletics

Athlete: Hannah Adams
College: Bethel
Sport: Basketball

Athlete: Kyle Miazga
College: Saint Francis
Sport: Football

Athlete: Ryan Hackworth
College: Heidelberg
Sport: Baseball

Athlete: Dylan Carlyle
College: Huntington
Sport: Soccer

Athlete: Mackenzie Rust
College: Saint Francis
Sport: Softball

Hackworth

Carlyle

Rust

Adams

Miazga

Photos by and provided by Michael Myers and Anthony Restivo

Wrestling team continues their season of success

PHOTO BY MICHAEL MYERS

Sophomore Ian Heath begins a match.

By Tyler Reisgies

Managing editor

With winning the Garrett Invitational, the Northeast Eight Conference, and Sectionals, the Leo High School wrestling team has been very victorious this season.

Much effort was given by the team to receive these victories.

Senior Jayden Elwood, who was conference, sectional, and regional champion for his weight class, said "I just put many hours and days into wrestling."

For sophomore Ian Heath, it was the bond of his teammates and coaches that helped him in winning the Garret Invitational, conference, sectionals, and regionals.

"Good partners and a family-like bond helped me get through tough times," explained

Heath.

These accomplishments have given both wrestlers a sense of pride.

Elwood told The Lion's Tale, "I am happy I have worked hard to get where I'm at."

Heath said, "I am happy that the work I put in was paying off and my goal of being a state champion was getting more within reach."

This is only the beginning for these wrestlers. Elwood states, "I'm hungry for more."

Although they didn't win regionals as a whole, many team members advanced to semi-state finals on Saturday Feb. 9th, 2019, at the Allen County War Memorial Coliseum.

Jacob Veatch, Ian Heath, Clayton Jackson, Jacob Fletcher, Jayden Elwood, and Thomas Busch all advanced.

Elwood and Heath advanced to the State championship held in Indianapolis.

Patriots win Superbowl LIII

By Haley Boyce

Editor-in-chief

On Sunday, Feb. third, the New England Patriots became the winners of Superbowl LIII.

The Patriots defeated the Los Angeles Rams at a score of 13-3 in Atlanta, Georgia.

According to Sports Illustrated, this is the team's sixth time winning the Superbowl.

The game was notably an uneventful one with no team scoring the first quarter, New England scoring three the second quarter, Los Angeles scoring three the third quarter, and finally ending with New England scoring a touchdown, clenching the victory.

Despite the slow pace of the game, Leo senior and varsity quarterback AJ Restivo thinks Patriots quarterback, Tom Brady was able to be calm, which ultimately led his team to victory.

"Brady knew his defense was unstoppable and was cool, calm, and collected," Restivo said. "The pace of the game played greatly into the Patriots favor."

According to USA Today, nearly 100.7 million viewers tuned in to watch the game and halftime show, along with the much anticipated advertisements.

This year's group of advertisements featured a unique variety including several celebrity appearances including singer Michael Bublé for Bubby, tennis star Serena Williams for Bumble, Chance the Rapper and musical group Backstreet Boys for Doritos, rapper Cardi B and actor Steve Carell for Pepsi, and several others.

Advertisements were not the only things anticipated during Superbowl 53.

The halftime show, performed by musical group Maroon 5 was one that stirred up mixed opinions.

The show, which was just over 13 minutes, featured the group's most popular songs such as "She Will Be Loved" and "Moves Like Jagger."

Rappers Travis Scott and Big Boi made an appearance during the show, as well as a clip of the animated television

"The pace of the game played greatly into the Patriots favor."

character, Spongebob.

Junior Audri Book was among the many who found the performance disappointing.

"I didn't really like the Super Bowl halftime show," Book said. "I usually think of it as entertaining but I felt that Maroon 5 didn't really do that. They didn't meet any expectations that I had."

While Book found it uninteresting, junior Kennedy Shade enjoyed it, except for the interruption of the Spongebob song that played, "Sweet Victory."

"I thought it was good but I'm just mad [Travis Scott's performance of "SICKO MODE"] interrupted Sweet Victory by Spongebob," Shade admitted.

Despite the controversy of the halftime show and the slow game, it's clear that the Super Bowl is still a favorite event among many, with the millions of views it racked up.

It's time for senior recognition ads!

Create your custom ad for your student today!

Color ads will be due April 30, 2019.

Full Page $225
1/2 Page $150
1/4 Page $85
1/8 Page $45

Ad layouts are available on jostenadservice.com

DELLINGER
Dr. Aron
Orthodontic Specialty Services

*Inspiring
Genuine Smiles*

Early & Adult Treatment
Clear Aligners & Braces
Advanced Orthodontics
TMD Treatment

1.800.999.2815
www.OSSFW.com

1120 E. Dupont Rd.
Fort Wayne, IN
841 S. Union St.
Warsaw, IN

Dating in high school has pros and cons

By Jaide Castillon

Chief photographer

girlfriend can turn into an only friend or the lack of effort put into school work can become a habit.

A relationship can turn too deep too fast from being young and committing to someone at an early stage.

Whether you're friends before the relationship starts or not, having a deep connection emotionally and physically can get in the way of your mindset.

I'm in a relationship currently and have been in relationships the past two years of high school and personally, I think dating and issues that come along with dating can get in the way of things.

Dating can definitely get in the way of school, sports, and overall a teenagers mental health.

Although, dating can be exciting at times, since you always have a companion and something to look forward, too.

Dating in high school is portrayed as something that's positive.

Having a boyfriend or girlfriend seems to be a goal for some people in their teenage lives, but it also can be a common distraction.

There are several pros and cons to dating in high school.

For example, a pro would be that you have a designated best friend.

Having a boyfriend or girlfriend comes with spending a lot of time with them.

You get to know each other and they tend to turn into your go to person day in and day out.

Also, problems that come along with dating can help you to adapt to life lessons.

Being in a relationship in high school years can help to learn how to date and stay committed to someone.

On the other hand, cons to dating in high school are a boyfriend or

PHOTO BY HALEY BOYCE

Two students hold hands.

Celebrity culture proves to be distracting

By Nina Kern

Managing editor

Celebrity culture is constantly being blasted on all forms of media.

Whether it's news of Kanye running for president 2020 or what's going on with the Kardashians, it is soon to be received from everywhere.

Lots of people like this kind of news though, in fact, People Magazine has a weekly audience of 4.6 million readers and has the largest audience of any American magazine (Dusseault).

Why, though, are people so stupefied and absorbed by these celebrities?

Most celebrities seen on television or on the cover of a magazine don't show up there because they have something to actually offer to society; they are just there exploiting their own lives for money.

It's unclear what celebrities like Kim Kardashian do to earn their living, but The Guardian suggests their role is to simply exist in our minds.

Supposedly, Kim Kardashian can act as a virtual neighbor: people can choose to check up on her, read about her life, and stay updated with it.

With this, it's

Most celebrities seen on television or on the cover of a magazine don't show up there because they have something to actually offer to society; they are just there exploiting their own lives for money.

possible that the celeb junkies are a little too involved.

A paper in the International Journal of Cultural Studies found that, among the people it surveyed in the UK, those who follow celebrity gossip closely are three times less likely than people interested in other forms of news to be involved in local organizations, and half as likely to volunteer.

"Virtual neighbors replace real ones" (The Guardian).

It is also viable to suggest that celebrity could be used as a form of mass distraction.

The same UK study claims that people who are the interested in celebrity are the least engaged in politics, the least likely to protest and the least likely to vote.

Not only are these people not a part of local business, they're not partaking in political business either, which could cause major issues.

Celebrities involved in mainstream media haven't proven to be harmless, but it's a matter of conspiracy as to how they're being used.

Is the media trying to form a distraction? Is celebrity news being used for more than just entertainment?

To Be

And

Juniors Joel Fowerbaugh and Megan Fuch

PHOTO PROVIDED BY FUCHS

1. How long have you been dating?

Joel : Approximately 580,320 minutes.

Megan: Too long.

2. What is your favorite thing about your significant other?

Joel: Her face.

Megan: The fact that he doesn't have any friends so he'll always hang out with me.

3. What is your favorite memory you've made together?

Joel: When we went to Cedar Point together over the summer.

Megan: I beat him at H-O-R-S-E.

4. Favorite date spot/date idea?

Joel: The movies.

Megan: The movies

5. What's a pet peeve of your's your significant other does?

Joel: Nothing. She's perfect.

Megan: He's blind.

Seniors Arland Coolman and Grace Hoffman

PHOTO PROVIDED BY HOFFMAN

1. How long have you been dating?

Arland : 7 months.

Grace: 7 months.

2. What is your favorite thing about your significant other?

Arland : When Grace gets really excited she jumps around and says "EEEE." It's really cute.

Grace: He surprises me with flowers all the time- it's really sweet.

3. What is your favorite memory you've made together?

Arland: Going to Cedar Point with her family for the day.

Grace: In the summer just hanging out and getting ice cream.

4. Favorite date spot/date idea?

Arland: Finding sketchy little Asian restuarants and trying them out.

Grace: Picnic at Parkview Park.

5. What's a pet peeve of your's your significant other does?

Arland: She is a terrible texter (so bad at responding).

Grace: He likes to embarass me in public- it's kinda silly though.

Freshman Jackson Barbour and Kaitlyn Heyneman

PHOTO PROVIDED BY HEYNEMAN

1. How long have you been dating?

Jackson : 5 months.

Kaitlyn: 5 months.

2. What is your favorite thing about your significant other?

Jackson: The fact that I can trust her no matter what.

Kaitlyn: The fact that he always manages to put a smile on my face or make me laugh.

3. What is your favorite memory you've made together?

Jackson: Semi Formal 2018.

Kaitlyn: Also Semi Formal.

4. Favorite date spot/date idea?

Jackson: Going out to dinner or baking together.

Megan: Watching movies or "The Office" together.

5. What's a pet peeve of your's your significant other does?

Jackson: She doesn't accept compliments.

Kaitlyn: He says "that's what she said" almost everytime I say something.

Juniors Will Haines and Meredith Minich

PHOTO PROVIDED BY MINICH

1. How long have you been dating?

Will: 15 months.

Meredith: 15 months.

2. What is your favorite thing about your significant other?

Will: Her dimple.

Meredith: His sense of humor.

3. What is your favorite memory you've made together?

Will: Spending our one year anniversary at Cedar Pointe.

Meredith: He took me on a surprise date to a park and we ran around like we were ten.

4. Favorite date spot/date idea?

Will: Logans Roadhouse.

Meredith: Logans Roadhouse.

5. What's a pet peeve of your's your significant other does?

Will: She gets sassy.

Meredith: He would sleep in until four if he had nothing to do that day.